

FEIGER NEWSFLASH

Win, Build, Send!

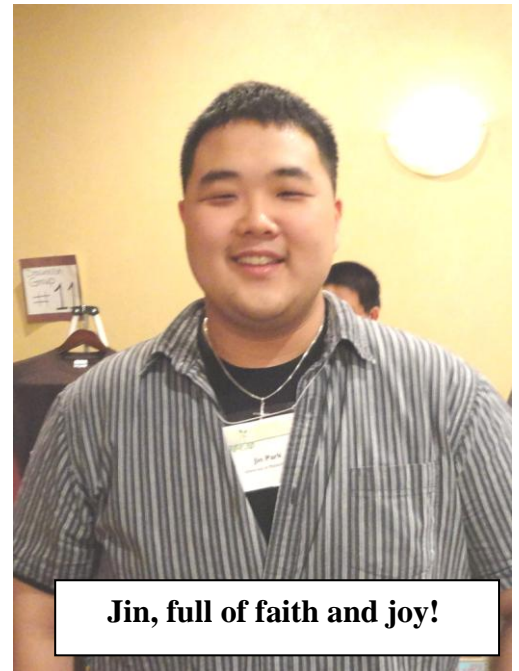

The heartbeat of the campus ministry is to win lost students to Christ, to build them up in their faith and to send them out to share with others. At Dartmouth College, we've been busy doing just that!

Win: Epic's "Transform" Conference, NJ

As many celebrated a long weekend over the Martin Luther King Jr. holiday, I, Tony, attended the Epic Conference entitled "Transform." Epic is a ministry specially designed to minister to Asian students. Typical for any of our conferences, we had a day of outreach. Our group paired up and went to the mall to talk to people about Martin Luther King Jr., and Jesus. My partner was Richard Denton, a friend and Dartmouth physics research professor who advises an Asian fellowship at Dartmouth known as Agape. First we had a delightful talk with an African American woman and her son, who were both Christians. After that we had a long streak of tough luck – we approached 15 or 20 people but nobody wanted to talk. When I told Richard how unusual that was (at Dartmouth 80% of students agree to discussion) he suggested we walk and pray.

Something happened! After walking and praying for a few minutes, Richard suggested we turn around and talk to a young man we'd passed who was sitting alone. We introduced ourselves and began asking him, Steven, a high school senior, what he thought about various Martin Luther King Jr. quotes. When we asked Steven if he wanted to hear what we thought about knowing God, he was also agreeable. As we read through and explained the "Knowing God Personally" booklet, it became clear that his heart was soft toward God and that he was ready to trust Jesus as his Savior and Lord. When invited, Steven bowed his head and prayed with us. As we were instructing him how to begin following Christ, we were taken back a little when his mother showed up, but she turned out to be very friendly and warm. God had such favor on us!

At the end of the day we all rejoiced as we shared and heard what God had done during the day of outreach. One team, Jin (who came to Christ through the Epic ministry at Penn State last year) and Zoro had an amazing story. They approached two brothers and separately led both of them to Christ! Then their mother showed up. Now Jin had more faith than us, because he asked the young man who just trusted Christ to share what he had learned with his mother, saying, "Don't worry, I'll be right here to make sure you explain it right"!!!

Jin, full of faith and joy!

In all, the 100 who went out that day lead 8 souls to Christ! Hallelujah!

Build: Training Students to Minister at Dartmouth College

Along with taking students or faculty out to share their faith to build their faith, we have also been busy this month training students how to lead Bible Studies and encourage students in their faith. This term Kaylene has been working closely with another gifted and much loved staff woman, Faye Gillespie, to help train our women leaders. Faye has been the only full-time woman staff member at Dartmouth the last few years. Since she is expecting her first child in March, they are doing all they can to prepare the women to “step up” in leading Bible Studies, discipleship and evangelism.

At the same time, Tony is leading a group of six men through a discipleship program based on the book of First Thessalonians. The group is plunging into topics of powerful preaching, fearless faith in God, of deep, yearning love for new believers, eternal rewards and of the surprising difference in effectiveness between adding believers and multiplying disciples.

Get this: If you could preach effectively to 1000 people every day it would take 16,000 years to reach today’s world population of 7 billion. But if, instead, you raised up, trained and sent out three disciples each year, and they did the same, and those they reached did the same, etc., you would reach the 7 billion in just 19 years! That’s why Paul wrote to Timothy, “And the things you have heard me say in the presence of many witnesses entrust to reliable people who will also be qualified to teach others.” (2 Tim. 2:2)

Send: Recruiting for Spring Break, Summer Projects & World Missions

Since its inception, the University has been used by God to prepare and send young people into missions. Students are available, teachable, and many want to make a difference in the world for Christ and His glory. This time of year students are making plans for the summer and seniors are wondering what they will do when they graduate. Many are considering missions.

Last Sunday Tony had the privilege of preaching a message at a student congregation on Acts 17:1-9, Paul’s ministry at Thessalonica, entitled, “Come Help Change the World for Christ”.

Last night at Christian Impact’s weekly meeting, Kaylene and Tony shared about the international scope of Campus Crusade for Christ and “Worldwide Student Network” – a partnership strategy through the campus ministry – encouraging our group to help establish a missions base at a campus overseas.

At the same time we are inviting students to join us on two missions: Panama City, Florida, “Big Break,” March 15-25 and the New York City “Tribeca Summer Project,” June 1-July 2.

It has definitely been a busy and exciting time for us this past month! Please keep our family, students and staff in your prayers as we seek to win, build and send here at Dartmouth.

With much love and gratitude for you, our family and friends...

P.S. Prayer specifically for the highlighted parts of the letter would be much appreciated!!
